Project Overview

We have implemented an innovative waste recycling art display program, through the reuse of office and restaurant waste, into works of art or practical office decoration. The project aims to raise employees' environmental awareness and demonstrate the aesthetic and practical value of waste after treatment, thereby reducing the reliance on landfills.We set up a "Community waste sharing and exchange station" within the company, where employees can bring items they no longer use to other employees to pick up or exchange them for free. These items include office supplies, small household appliances, books, clothing, etc., and many items that would otherwise be waste are reused. This strategy not only reduces waste generation, but also increases the useful life of items and encourages recycling.
